MAGAZINE ARTICLES

You may also use magazine articles for your research. You should use the Air University Library Index to Military Periodicals to locate articles about NCO history.

The Air University Library Index to Military Periodicals (AUL) is in two formats – paper and online via the Internet. The LRC has the paper edition from 1949 to 1999. The LRC Staff can assist you in using the two formats and in locating the magazine articles for you.

The Online version of the AUL is located at the Air University Library Website. The URL is

<https://sisko.au.af.mil>

The easiest way to search is to use the Online version. Just type in noncommissioned officer as your search strategy. Again, check with the LRC Staff to see if the LRC has the magazine article you want.

The LRC also has access to the ProQuest Databases, another source for magazine, journal and newspaper articles. Most of the articles in this database are available in full-text formats. For access to these databases, check with the LRC Staff for current login and password information. The URL is

<http://proquest.umi.com/pqdweb>

INTERNET RESOURCES

There are many websites which have NCOs and NCO History as their subject. The easiest way to locate these sites is to use the Web Browser of your choice and the Internet search engine of your choice then type in the following search strategy:

"noncommissioned officer" and "history"

It is important to use the quotation marks since this will force your search engine to look at noncommissioned officer as a string - the words must be together and not spread across the web page.

One of the best non-Army websites is the History Page at

<http://www.ncoteam.org> (formerly <http://www.squad-leader.com/>)

This page has many links to NCO History, especially to those pages written by SGM Dan Elder, USASMA Graduate.

Again, check with the LRC Staff if you need assistance in doing Internet searches.
